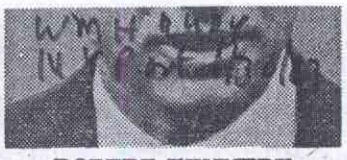
The Post learned that Bobby Kennedy, in one of the most crucial and controversial moves of the whole dispute, gave in to the pressure of friends and for that reason wired Manchester that "the Kennedy family will place no obstacle in the way of publication"—a message sent because he had been told the writer "might jump out of a building or something."



ROBERT KENNEDY